Black Women in
Hospitality & Live Event Production

A millennial mom and entrepreneur from Baltimore, Maryland, Chantél Clea is driven by the philosophy that doing whatever it takes is the baseline, and going above and beyond to empower and strengthen the Black Community is commonplace. That philosophy is what helps fuel her to live her purpose-driven life.

The eldest of three children, Chantél has always been a leader and advocate for others. Whether during her tenure as Chair of the Baltimore City Youth Commission or her 15 years at the NAACP National Office, Chantél has continuously utilized her innate talent and keen eye for organizational attention to detail while effectively and strategically advocating for others.

In 2016, Chantél launched Clea Event Productions, a full-service multimedia production agency that strategizes with each client to curate memorable experiences that educate, entertain, and empower Black People. Chantél deploys her 20+ years of event planning experience to produce events, campaigns, and product launches that amplify a unique and engaging experience for each client through events and multimedia production.
